DETAILED ACTION

Claims 33-45 are under examination on the merits.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

The following is a quotation of the first paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall contain a written description of the invention, and of the manner and process of making and using it, in such full, clear, concise, and exact terms as to enable any person skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and use the same and shall set forth the best mode contemplated by the inventor of carrying out his invention.

Claims 33-48 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, as failing to comply with the written description requirement. The claim(s) contains subject matter which was not described in the specification in such a way as to reasonably convey to one skilled in the relevant art that the inventor(s), at the time the application was filed, had possession of the claimed invention. Current application is a continuation of U.S. Patent No. 6,013,459 filed 6/12/1997. The examiner searched for explicit support for the phrase "compositions comprising an array of electrodes, each electrode comprising a covalently attached binding lined ... etc." as recited in claim 33 and its dependent claims 34-48 and could not find any. The only reference to word "array" was found in column 16 of said U.S. patent and it is directed to an "array of analytes" rather than electrodes. Hence, claimed subject matter is considered to be new matter. Applicant is advised to either refer the examiner to a specific location in the specification where claimed subject mater finds explicit support or kindly amend the claims such that they are supported by the disclosure.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

Claims 33-48 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Duong et al. (U.S. Patent No. 6,740,518 issued 5/25/2004). The applied reference has a common assignee with the instant application. Based upon the earlier effective U.S. filing date of the reference, it constitutes prior art under 35 U.S.C. 102(e). This rejection under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) might be overcome either by a showing under 37 CFR 1.132 that any invention disclosed but not claimed in the reference was derived from the inventor of this application and is thus not the invention “by another,” or by an appropriate showing under 37 CFR 1.131. As explained above the examiner could not find support for the claimed subject matter in parent applications. Therefore the earliest priority date that the current invention can benefit from is its actual filing date, which is 4/24/2001. In view of said date Duong teaches a composition comprising an array of electrodes at least one of which comprises a capture binding ligand covalently attached to an electrode, a target analyte and an electron transfer moiety, which under specific embodiments, can be solvent accessible transition metal complex (see column 2 and column 37), wherein transition metals in said complexes inherently have at least one or two coordination sites, occupied by water molecules, anticipating claim 33-34. In columns 4 and 77 Duong teaches about electrodes comprising a self-assembled monolayer and attaching said transition metal complexes through spacers, anticipating claims 36-37, 44. In columns 77, 68 and 72 Duong teaches about spacers being made of conductive oligomers and formation of redox active complex between the solvent accessible transition metal complex and binding ligands, anticipating claims 38-40. In claims 2-3 Duong claims methods of detecting both proteins and nucleic acids as analytes using its array of electrodes, anticipating claims 41-43. In columns 14 and 18, Duong teaches about conductive oligomers having the formulae recited in claims 46-48, anticipating said claims. In column 4, Duong teaches about using gold for constructing its electrodes, anticipating claim 48.

No claims are allowed.
